

The New Renaissance: A Prophecy of 2012 and Beyond

December 21, 2012 is a date which many have speculated - incorrectly - as signifying the end of the world. For decades, intuitive researcher Douglas James Cottrell has been teaching that this date will not mean an end to civilization as we know it, but it will be an end to an era. The industrial revolution, the atomic age, the consumer culture and the carelessness we serve on one another have taken us to a point of imbalance. Now as the planet begins to right itself, a series of environmental disasters the likes of which we have never seen in recent history will send the planet through a series of gyrations that will reshape it so much that in the future it will not be recognizable to today! In this book, you can learn how to prepare yourself for the troubled times ahead. Find out safe places to live and what provisions you need to stock up on now to survive. The promise for the future is that as the Earth rights itself, a new Renaissance will emerge. There will be a total transformation of our society and the way we relate to one another, A spiritual awakening is taking place with a return to the ancient wisdom of the Law Of One: that you are connected with all things and everyone, and that whatever you do to another affects us all.
