

The Organizational Behaviour Casebook

This text provides a set of cases to illustrate key topics in organizational behaviour. Each case is carefully designed to incorporate a variety of issues, covering such topics as: conflict management, international strategy, competitiveness, cycles of behaviour, culture change, and control. It includes a range of organizations from commodity traders and the Church of England to the Police and the US Skylab space programme. It provides questions, discussion points, lists of source materials and a guide to reading for organizational behaviour so can be used as an all round resource for students of OB, HRM and general management.
