Arms and cartridge belts for assistants of automatic riflemen.II. The first and second assistants of the automatic rifleman will each be armed with a magazine rifle as laid down in table 7, Series A, Tables of Organization, January 14, 1918, and to each of these assistants will be issued the same design cartridge belt; that is, one without butt rest and containing four pockets for eight automatic rifle magazines and four pockets for eight rifle clips. (320.2, A. G. O.)Clothing for officers and enlisted men of foreign armies.III. The sale of clothing to officers of foreign armies and its issue to enlisted men of the French Army on duty with or attached to the military forces of the United States is authorized. Such sales and issues, however, will be subject to the same restrictions and limitations as are imposed upon sales of clothing to officers and upon issues to enlisted men who are in the military service of the United States. Vouchers covering issues of clothing to enlisted men of the French Army will be forwarded by the accountable officer to the Quartermaster General of the Army for transmission to the French embassy. (336.4, A. G. O.)General Orders, No. 45, May 9, 1918.Organization, functions, etc., of Development Battalions.I. 1. Under the authority conferred by sections 1, 2, 8, and 9 of the act of Congress, Authorizing the President to increase temporarily the Military Establishment of the United States, approved May 18, 1917, the President directs that there be organized for the period of the existing emergency at each National Army, National Guard, and Regular Army Divisional Camp, and in such other camps as may be directed by the Secretary of War, one or more Development Battalions. These battalions will be organized under Table 401, Training Battalion, Infantry, Series D, corrected to March 22, 1918. The officers authorized herein will be provided as prescribed in the third paragraph of section 1 and by section 9 of the act of May 18, 1917.2. The functions of the Development Battalions will be:

- a. To relieve divisions, replacement organizations, etc., of all unfit men.
- b. To conduct intensive training with a view to developing unfit men for duty with combatant or noncombatant forces either within the United States or for service abroad.
