

EINSTEINS COUNT ON YOUR FINGERS Guide:: Imagination & Numbers for Inspired Living

As Pythagoras, the father of both geometry and also of one of the three fundamental numerological systems said: Things equal to the same thing are equal to each other. So, Time is money. Money is time. Time is movement. Movement is money. Money is movement. Money is an active metaphor of power so money, power, time and movement are all equal to each other and perhaps even directly transformable one into the other. Einstein, another great creative mathematician, time explorer and a key figure in unlocking the power in the atom, said that nothing happens in the universe until something moves. Time moves, money moves, power moves (action). The key to time, money and power clearly implies a direct relationship with movement. Movement also implies direction. Einstein showed us that time and space was closely tied together into what he called the time/space continuum. So, space can also be added as being an equal with time, money, power and movement. In fact it is the space aspect of time/space which gives us the idea of direction and location: where we are relative to where we are going. (Energy follows directed thought). Putting these concepts together, perhaps one simple key to wealth creation could be stated as the following: Becoming aware of your movements, the ends toward which your actions are directed, shows how you are investing your time. If time equals money, then both time and movement are related to the money flow in your life as well as the power at your disposal. Now before this begins to sound like your usual time management seminar or self help book, where they talk about establishing priorities, setting goals, planning your time, all of which is fine and quite useful, providing one applies the methods, I assure you that this is something else. Yes, we will accept a kind of distant family relationship, say third cousins, but essentially this article both comes from and goes in another direction entirely. Our interest is a mathematically imaginative one. Another way to look at numbers is, in fact, as a kind of imaginative or metaphoric and personalized perception device. A numerical matrix of an inner technology. Suppose for a moment that we could make the statement that meeting your desires, experiencing self fulfilment and having an abundant cash flow and life dynamic including health and relationships is as easy as counting from 1-10? Well, it is true. Having a fulfilling, abundant life is as easy as counting from one to ten and you may even count on your fingers, something Einstein said he also did and enjoyed. Here is how it is done. Follow along and there will be a pleasant surprise at the end. If we combine the idea of numbers and counting with action or movement we have something we might call numerical movement, a kind of awareness accounting of our actions and the perceived consequences. Better still we can use the 1-10 formula as a simple guide to personal empowerment and enjoyment at every level. Lets have a look:
