

Who Was Who; 5000 BC - 1914 AD: Biographical Dictionary of the Famous and Those Who Wanted to Be (Forgotten Books)

A biographical dictionary of famous people from the beginning of recorded history, up until 1914. About the Author Jack London (1876 - 1916) Jack London (12 January 1876 - 22 November 1916) was an American author who wrote The Call of the Wild and other books. A pioneer in the then-burgeoning world of commercial magazine fiction, he was one of the first Americans to make a lucrative career exclusively from writing. Jack London was deserted by his father, William Henry Chaney. He was raised in Oakland, California by his mother Flora Wellman, a music teacher and spiritualist. Because Flora was ill, Jack was raised through infancy by an ex-slave, Virginia Prentiss, who would remain a major maternal figure while the boy grew up. Late in 1876, Flora married John London, a partially disabled Civil War veteran. The family moved around the Bay area before settling in Oakland, where Jack completed grade school. Though the family was working class, it was not as impoverished as London's later accounts claimed. Biographer Clarice Stasz and others believe that Jack London's father was astrologer William Chaney. Whether Wellman and Chaney were legally married is unknown. Most San Francisco civil records were destroyed by the vast fires which followed the 1906 earthquake (for the same reason, it is not known with certainty what name appeared on his birth certificate). Stasz notes that in his memoirs Chaney refers to Jack London's mother Flora Wellman as having been his wife and also cites an advertisement in which Flora calls herself Florence Wellman Chaney. He moved to Georgia in 1898. (Quote from (Quote from wikipedia.org)) About the Publisher Forgotten Books is a publisher of hi
