

Kitchen Gangster?

John Newton put his years of experience as a policeman and broadcaster to the test when asked to interview Vance Miller, a man who has been pilloried in the Media as a Rogue Trader, kidnapper, diamond and gold smuggler. Yet the truth revealed is far more complex because Vance is also an amazingly successful entrepreneur who has built up what is rapidly becoming the largest kitchens supplier in the UK. This has been achieved by acquiring entire oak forests in Mongolia, granite quarries and factory complexes throughout China. Put into the mix two arson attacks on his private home, massive police raids and armed robberies on his offices, a vicious break-in at his mothers house and destruction by fire of fifty percent of his premises and stock, plus fighting the determination of persons in the local authorities to force him out of business, allegedly in order to grab his property for a major private development in the centre of Oldham and we have a real life corporate thriller
