Ten Lessons For Controlling Your Mind From Korea

1. Be a human being. Monitor your personality before trying to make a good relationship with others. Never calculate about the people. Remember that a bird of a feather flock together.
2. Don't be an enemy to anybody. Friends bring success to you while enemies cause your success to collapse.
3. 3% of opponents are dangerous to an organization.
3. Your social network includes three types: leaders, cooperators, followers. You have to meet with your good leaders first. They are your teachers who can help you make it.
4. Always welcome and thank anybody you meet like your helper.
5. Always leave a strong image of yours at your first meeting. Make yourself remain in others hearts like a precious stone, not a common stone of the street.
6. Be a meaningful man when you are with others. If you don't think you are a good man, you can be an entertainer to them at least.
7. Three times a day, swallow your pride, and praise others. Your patience can stop any harm, and your praise can make whales dance around.
8. If any event happens to others, always be glad as well as sad with them. If you think others events are like yours, you will feel the same.
9. Give & Give & Forget Always give and forget. Give & take principle has no lasting impression to others.
10. Whatever happens, keep your social network till the end

Excepted from this book Londoners Review On Raoul Teachers Road To English After reading Raoul Teachers Road To English I'd like to reveal my gratitude and thankfulness to the writer of the book, Raoul Teacher, (=Won-gil, Park) in Busan, Korea Because he let the Londoners like me read his book.

I strongly think that those who want to master English must see the writers books and, Those who want to be the 1st in their fields and study out of Korea must get a big inspiration about English language itself. As non-native speakers of English, every day we tend to make the same mistakes, and hardly ever understand the similar grammar. When I look into the 1st parts of the book, I Londoners Review On Raoul Teachers Road To English After reading Raoul Teachers Road To English I'd like to reveal my gratitude and thankfulness to the writer of the book, Raoul Teacher, (=Won-gil, Park) in Busan, Korea Because he let the Londoners like me read his book. I strongly think that those who want to master English must see the writers books and, Those who want to be the 1st in their fields and study out of Korea must get a big inspiration about English language itself. As non-native speakers of English, every day we tend to make the same mistakes, and hardly ever understand the similar grammar. When I look into the 1st parts of the book, I can easily notice that the authors endless efforts to explain the subjunctive mood, the present perfect tense, the present perfect progressive form, and the prepositions. In fact these parts have been my trouble all my life, but now I can understand well thanks to the author, Raoul Teacher. I am really honored to the authors try to let the readers know what they didnt use well. The author, Won-gil, Park, wants his students or readers to be a better English user than him. So I got touched and moved to see his behavior based on the philosophy like this.

Now I have lived in London for my study for 5 years in a row, and I think that the authors opinion about studying in another nation is right. Many of those from other countries here hardly have any chances to meet the English native speakers because they are so shy and tend to feel like they are gentiles. As I have lived my life for more than 35 years, I realized that the environment where people stay is not that important. Those who draw a big picture on the world will have nothing to disturb them. Only their ambiguity about their plan is to disturb them. In this time and age of English-must era, e
