

A World Without Tyranny: Christian Faith and International Politics (Turning Point Christian Worldview Series)

Some see Mikhail Gorbachev's glasnost and perestroika as harbingers of a global spring in international relations. Yet, in today's world we see a continuing deterioration of basic human rights. Tiananmen Square was a brutal reminder that tyranny is still a reality in our world. Is there Biblical justification for American Christian involvement in international politics and foreign affairs? This carefully articulated Christian theology of international politics is based on a sound understanding of Christianity, international politics, and the relationship between the two.
