

The Crisis of Economic Knowledge

This is book three in the series. Book one is The Technological Laws and Intellectual Conquest of the U.S.A and Book two is Technological Mistakes and Reserves of the Government System and you can find them on Amazon.com also. Theoretical technology divides all sciences into creative and service and combines them into one system of knowledge. In the government system service intelligence (intelligence of economists, lawyers, and other specialists of service sciences) control the development of the country on the basis of subjective opinions.
