Cet ouvrage constitue les actes du colloque international Theorie, analyse, interpretation des récits/Theory, analysis, interpretation of narratives, qui s'est tenu à l'Université Paris Diderot-Paris 7 les 12 et 13 décembre 2008. Ce colloque, qui réunissait des chercheurs venus d'horizons très variés, s'est donné pour but d'examiner trois problèmes précis : D'abord, le problème des rapports entre la théorie et l'analyse du récit (quel rôle doit jouer la théorie dans l'analyse du récit ? quel peut être l'effet en retour de l'analyse sur la théorie du récit ?) ; ensuite le problème des rapports entre l'analyse et la lecture courante du récit (le but de l'analyse est-il de rendre compte de ce qui se passe dans la lecture courante du récit ? les études menées sur des groupes de lecteurs empiriques conduisent-elles à modifier l'analyse, voire la théorie du récit ?) ; et enfin le problème de la portée historique et culturelle de la théorie du récit. This book contains the collected papers of the international conference Theorie, analyse, interpretation des récits/Theory, analysis, interpretation of narratives, held at the University of Paris Diderot-Paris 7 on the 12th and 13th of December 2008. The conference, which brought together specialists with very different backgrounds, aimed to examine three specific problems: first, the problem of the relations between theory and analysis (What role should theory play in the analysis of narrative? How might analysis affect narrative theory in return?); secondly, the problem of the relations between analysis and everyday reading of narratives (Is the goal of analysis to account for what takes place in everyday readings of narrative? Do studies conducted on empirical groups of readers modify narrative analysis or narrative theory itself?); and finally the problem of the historical and cultural scope of narrative theory.
