Coaching by Values is an amazing book endorsed by some of the foremost celebrated global coaches. It was written for coaches, managers, educators and any concerned parent or professional. The book includes a chapter with an overview of coaching. But primarily, this book is about values; it is about life values, work values, community values, world values and all the values that power our lives and our organizations. It is also about value alignment. Throughout the chapters, a distinct framework, methodology and tools for conducting a value audit, re-engineering and alignment is provided. The book has received excellent independent reviews: Blueink review: blueinkreview.com/reviews/view/775/srch:coaching%20by%20values Written with a sense of passion and purpose about a meaningful and important topic, Coaching by Values is not a breezy business book. It will take work on the part of the reader to fully comprehend the depth of Dolans discussion and to understand how best to apply his methodology. The reader who works through this book should be better off for the effort
