Fourteen year old Leah Tusa is no longer the helpless little girl she was just a few days ago. She and her friends have decided that going to Stafford Springs, Connecticut is their best chance at surviving the zombie apocalypse. While trying to gather supplies for the journey, they run into terrifyingly hopeless situations where it seems like their done for. That is until they are rescued by a new group of boys who only recognize strength as an asset. The groups unite and agree to go to the town in Connecticut. The big muscle head Zack takes charge and seems to lead the groups into chaos. Leah is faced with having to make decisions that may bring either life or death to both groups. Not to mention her constant distraction of her feelings for Rudy becomes a force that she can no longer leave unspoken.
