

Constitutional Authority in a Postmodern Culture

This book shows the validity of constitutional authority and the invasion of postmodern theories in our culture. Postmodern theory has assaulted the western culture on the battleground of absolute truth and reality. If there is no absolute, independent and manifestly defined truth, there is no God. Without God human beings will not understand the purpose of life. Postmodern theory places human experience over abstract objective principles. Postmodernists insist that reality is constructed in the individual mind and must be interpreted relative to each individual. Postmodern theory explains reality based on our perception of all cultural milieu. Christians have a constitution known as the Bible so they will know the truth of reality.
