

Wakeup Calls: What happens when you accept Your Call to Adventure

We all experience Wakeup Calls at different stages of our lives that prompt us to start on our personal journey to change the status quo. In other words, we answer or accept our Call to Adventure and by the end of our journey we are transformed by our experience and sometimes even inspire others to go after their dreams because our story shows them that it can be done. A Call to Adventure makes us step outside of our comfort zone to achieve a goal or outcome is usually preceded by a wakeup call that can only be ignored at our own peril. I was inspired to convert the coaching call into a self-coaching guide from the feedback that one of the participants provided and want to share with others the fact that John Campbells monomyth is universal and not the domain of only fairy tales and folklore.

Will I succeed in inspiring you to take up the Call to Adventure and help you make a difference in your life? I hope so!
